

Practice Dream 20140509

It's May 9th, 2014. It's about 8:30 in the morning and I just wanted to grab a couple quick notes. I had a really interesting dream last night. I told Vicki it was almost like a vision of my future practice and I mean it's of course I only remember bits and pieces of it and disjointed pieces at times. But I remembered I was transporting some people and I think it was actually to my residence. I guess I had the same setup there as I do now with my little local services. I had a section of my home or perhaps a separate dwelling. I don't remember which and it was all about counsel. I was meeting with them and we were discussing the challenges that they faced but I remember what I, you know it's so weird because I what I was really enjoying was you know I was a host. You know I was inviting them in and I was getting them coffee or tea and we were just sitting around the table and chatting and you know I guess this kind of goes back to what that one guy told me. I can't think of his name now but you know I remember he told me that I was folksy and you know that is you know is I don't know my temperament I think. You know it goes back to you know this is the essence of being is becoming so I guess in some respects I'm projecting myself into that but I think it also is part of my natural form, part of my temperament. Yeah I just but anyway I also I had I have a faint memory that I was asking this one particular person about helping a group that was coming in to work with them. I guess he had a certain expertise and I think he from what I remember of the dream that I had achieved a notoriety and that was why he even met with me but it was based on his talents and abilities, his gifts that I had asked if he would make a contribution to the effort that I was about to engage in and that was part of what the dream was about that initial meeting with him in order to ask him for his assistance so him and I could I guess partner up on this one particular task. Anyway I guess what I'm trying to get to is it was I was immersed in it and it was the practice that I would wish for I just want to make it happen I just want to be worthy of that through my work through the dissemination of my works. Anyway I guess that's really all I wanted to get down on tape I just I just didn't want it to slip away before I took some notes about it while I was still a little fresh in my mind. Signing off.
